“ My heart is broken over the passing of this great man! And although I know that he is no longer suffering, the thought of him actually being gone is hard to imagine. The Reyes family and the Ela family have been friends for longer than I can remember...the tennis tournaments at Perring Racquet Club, the trips to Ocean City, Christmases at the Reyes house, and so many more memories that will never be forgotten! Oh what I wouldn't give to have those times back again!

Mr. Eddie was was my dad's 'stu' - and he was kind, funny, caring, loving, giving, and just an all-around man to admire. I know that there are tennis courts, golf courses and fishing holes in heaven where you and my dad can hang out once again.

I will never forget you Mr. Eddie - you will always hold a very special place in my heart!

*With much love,
Chris Ela*

“ I first met Eddie when he was involved in assisting as girls’ softball coach for his daughter, Diana and our daughter, Sue while both are on the same team, playing in a formal organized league in the Loch Raven area. And usually played the game in a field located at the corner of Nothern Parkway and Loch Raven Blvd, not too far from Mercy High School. From then on, our families became very good friends, And it’s just a coincidence that we both share the same hobbies and interests in sports, such as playing softball, tennis, golf, fishing and skiing. I considered Eddie as a natural athlete among the group of Pinoys, as he was so versatile and competitive. He engaged almost in all types of sports. He was very skilled in all areas of home construction, as he, with the help of his friends, built his own house, where he currently reside, from start, including surveying and all lot preparations to putting up building structures to completion.

Eddie was a true friend who I can count on.

He was kind and generous, always true to his friends. I don’t know of anyone who didn’t like Eddie. Once you had met him, you had a friend for life especially for those who worked with him in the Maryland State gov’t. To sum it all up, Eddie gets along well with everyone, very easy to gain friends, and honest and true to everyone.

I will greatly miss this very good fellow, He is unique in his ways, quick thinker and above all, a very smart minded guy. He will never be gone in the hearts of all who had the opportunity to know him. We will miss him very much. I consider him my true brother, just like a member of our own family. So long and farewell Eddie, as we will see each other again someday. Rest in peace my friend. God Bless.

Tony and Jackie Occiano & family.

“ I first met him in the early 1950's when our family moved to a house, built by his father, in barrio Alima. No sooner, I became friends to his older brother Rene and including others, particularly singled out Eddie as among the well behaved and quit young teen among the loud and rowdy youths of that place. He stands out, always acted proper and made good used of his athleticism to endear and be counted as one of the guys. Most importantly had shown the wits to survived the lean years and made do with whatever meager means he has to deal with with the ever present hunger and needs of a growing teenage body. When others spent their centavos on stuffs like cigarettes and whatever are the crazed of the time, he took clever steps to ensure his daily sustenance by buying the densest and bulkiest bread money can buy called “parasyon” or “monay” in which he will sparingly eat, stuffing the rest in his pocket where he will constantly fished out pieces to nibbled with throughout the day, to the last crumbs. Yeah, while others can only look and salivate, none dared ask for a bite of the bread, knowing it's being kept throughout the day in his front pocket..always sweaty-hot and damp. For quite sometime, guys jokingly called him “parasyon” or “monay.” Yeah, he did fared better those days, than most of us. There are more than one fond memories I have had of him. There are our Norfolk days, among others, plus lots of memories of these latter years. To sum it all up, all of our good of him, and putting it simply; Eddie is a good husband, a good provider, a loving and dedicated father to his children, a good brother and a most sincere and helpful friend, to boot.

I'll miss him dearly.
