“ Dr. Turner took a chance on me and allowed me to enter the UofB MBA program with less than the required "credentials ". Once I was in I knew I could not let him down, had it not been for Dr. Turner only God knows. When ever I count my blessings, I end up thanking "Meb"

“ Meb and our families were neighbors for 45 years in Ocean City . Fond memories of many sunsets. I have to share one funny story. We lived in unit 6 and the White's lived in unit 7. Many nights when Hal was between 11-13, he would jump from deck to deck to see Kristen. Our children and many other owner's children considered themselves one big family. MANY HAPPY MEMORIES OF VANTAGE POINT.

“ One of the very last generation of gentlemen 🎩. His signature bow tie, smile, and keen wit disarmed many over the years. A stalwart spokesman for higher education and forceful advocate for Baltimore City plus transition leadership for the University of Baltimore as a strong niche player in the law school, public policy, and graduate programs in public administration will long set his legacy as a builder and honorable gentleman

I had the pleasure to know him during my adjunct professor teaching days and while served as Chairman of the Finance Committee University System of Maryland and a Regent. Only clear policy disagreed his dropping Uzb lacrosse. Ub was a powerhouse. God Bless Meb and my husband owned a cabin on Hansen Lake near Temagami, Ontario from 1956 to about 1972. Joe and I spent several visits to the cabin with Meb. I think he was still a student at Union and planning a life in the Presbyterian Church. Meb was smart and fun and very handsome.

The cabin ultimately proved to be just too remote for the Colorado Markeys or for Meb to visit and keep up so Joe and Meb eventually agreed to sell it to Bob Gehre(?), a helicopter pilot who owned a string of remote cabins. Joe and I were able to see Meb occasionally and follow his career thru the years. It was clear that he was a an unusual person with many talents and a real charmer as well. May he rest in peace along with my husband, Dr. Joe Markey.
