“ Jim and Erin played music with the baltimore mandolin orchestra with Bernie and I. We were friends and a quartet together. He was a loving warm person.

“ We had not been in touch for the last couple years before his death, but Jim and I were good friends during the years when we both lived in Hagerstown, MD. Although we had known each other casually as young professionals working for Washington County agencies, our friendship began to develop as Jim enlisted my help in starting a local hospice, an effort he undertook after watching his father suffer unbearable pain prior to his death. This was characteristic of Jim. When he saw a need he wanted to fill it and as a result, without their ever knowing him personally, countless terminally ill individuals and their loved ones have benefitted from Jim's response to this need .

Jim and I shared a love of music, especially folk and bluegrass. We attended several live performances together including a camping trip to Garrett County for the annual fiddler's contest and I have fond memories of Jim playing guitar in a three member folk group called Hat Trick.

Although Jim will no longer walk with those of us who remain, his legacy of love, compassion, humility, good will toward all and light-hearted humor will long be remembered and cherished by those whose lives were touched by his presence, mine included.

“ As an old friend of 52 years there are more memories [all good] than I could possibly recount. If there was ever an example of an officer and a gentleman, it was Jim. The loss is truly felt by all with whom he had contact.
