“ My condolences to the family and friends of Jean-Barry Molz. While I knew her only from a few fleeting interactions at various library functions, and never had the opportunity to work with her directly, her achievements and legacy at BCPL (and in the library field) were and remain powerful and enduring. Those she guided and mentored for many years in librarianship and leadership went on to guide and mentor the next generations of leaders, including myself. All of us at BCPL have benefitted, and continue to do so, from Jean-Barry's remarkable life, work and dedication. She was an original. There will never be another like her.

Jean-Barry Molz was a mentor who led by example, showing that one could be hard-working, perform to a high standard, demonstrate care for other employees, all while maintaining a gracious demeanor and sense of humor. I feel very lucky to have worked under her guidance through a formative stage of my career, learning fundamentals of supervision and project management. We stayed in touch for over 30 years after I moved on from BCPL. She was always encouraging. When you received her praise, you know that you really earned it. Jean-Barry was the gold standard.
