“Being one of eleven, my mom was extremely busy. Joanne as my oldest sister was not only my sister, but second mom, friend, and partner in crime. She gave me my first cup of "coffee" 3/4 cream, 1/4 coffee, half sugar. She said it may stunt my growth. Perhaps she was right. She loved her coffee and we both ended up around 5 feet tall. I remember her helping me with homework, making my lunch, sharing in my joys and sorrows. She was always there for me. When Craig died, she was a tremendous comfort. When Chloe was born, she was thrilled.

For thirty five years Joanne and Don came to our house for Christmas dinner. In all of that time the menu never changed. Imperial crab, baked potato, vegetable, salad, and the dessert of her choice. She, like me, loved her desserts! Even though we are both sticklers for tradition, every single year she would ask "What's on the Christmas menu, Suz?" I'd make something up and we would laugh. We had this very conversation on September 7, the day before she died.

My favorite cake is called September 7th cake. This Christmas we will have it in your honor, JoJo. I miss you more than I can say, love you forever. I can't wait to see you again.

Love,

Suz

I did not know Joanne, but have come to know the warm, caring, and genuine woman she was through your FB posts and this wonderful shared memory. I know the special bond the two of you shared as I have a sister considerably younger than I, and have always been a "second Mom" to her. May God's loving arms hold you close and comfort you through this very difficult time.
