“ We all have our individual memories of those who crossed our lives and I always recall Ron from our time at the Mount. Ron was such a pleasant and optimistic young guy, full of fun and serious about his work. I particularly remember crossing paths when we worked on the Mount Echo in college. I look at his picture now and remember many interesting conversations and discussions we enjoyed. My thoughts go to his family knowing they each have wonderful things to recall about a sincere, caring person who is missed. He made this place better for being a part of it.
